PROJECT MANAGEMENT & IMPLEMENTATION SERVICES

We offer the services of experienced practitioners that understand the complexity of system upgrades and implementations. Is your current technology project on schedule, on-track, and within budget? We are prepared to work with you to understand your present and future needs. Our consultants possess extensive experience in many applications and can provide project management, process development, and implementation services.

We understand that successful change is a process. Knowledge transfer and training are important and we employ a team-oriented approach to put the right solution to work for you. Our post-implementation services will ensure that your users are supported even after the solution is in place— we want you to benefit as much as possible from your upgrade or implementation.

Our project management methodology provides an easy to follow approach to taking your implementation team from concept, to development, to reality.

APPLICATION & WEB DEVELOPMENT

We offer web-based application development services, including web portal design and development. Our experienced team can also work with you to integrate your Internet and/or intranet solutions with other applications as necessary. Database design, website development, and custom software development services are also available.

SYSTEMS INTEGRATION

Our staff offers solutions that enable you to access the data you want, how and when you want it, regardless of where it is physically located. Our project managers, systems engineers, webmasters, business and data analysts design useful interfaces and data handling systems that streamline current processes, while coordinating computer applications across the enterprise. Our consultants and developers work to bring these designs to fruition.

NETWORK DESIGN & IMPLEMENTATION

As a network solution provider, our philosophy on network connectivity is about "connecting people" first and foremost. Our management and implementation teams are trained to understand the business objectives to be served by the network (i.e., voice, data and video). Our consultants, network and systems engineers are proficient in information security, communications equipment, data networks and building IT infrastructures. In addition, our technical staff has extensive LAN/WAN administration experience with an array of Microsoft, NOVELL, Cisco and 3-COM products.

OTHER SERVICES

We are a full-service technology company. Let us fill your help desk and IT training needs, administer your critical databases, and/or be your authorized reseller. We also provide technical assessments, facilities management, strategic planning services, and office automation equipment repairs and support.
